“ [["The Magic Hour" by Zellia Enjoli Tatiana]
From the moment we first open our eyes, we are propitious. Our lives will continuously cocoon and eclose. Sometimes with expectation. Most times, with wonderment. It is by means of wisdom that we learn... what miracles look like, what grace and mercy feel like, what the world tastes like with love in it. Ambrosial. Everything a bit sweeter... Seraphic even... Like how the blue of the night cruises into the yellow of the morning when the sun is due to rise. ... How the orange of the day marries the purple of the night, at sunset. The minute we close our eyes for the last time, we are fortunate. To have seen the stars shift shape and the universe abide and breathe back. To have dreamt dreams and then lived them. To have grown Love. ... Absent of conditions, escaping time eternally. To have cradled unique imaginings in our minds, blessings in our arms. Our lives will continuously cocoon and eclose. Sunrise and sunset look like twins in the sky, at the magic hour. No one can name which is more beautiful.]

Thank you for being you. Gone too soon. Never forgotten. - Zee

“ My heart broke when I heard Tracey gained her wings. I've been trying for two days to write in this box what she meant to me so simply I'll just say she was the friend that found you if you were down or hurt, she was the coworker you loved to be paired with and she was the leader you could and would follow eyes closed and one of the coolest chicks I know! Rest easy Lady you will always be love and light for all who had the pleasure to know you! Jermalla Hill

“ Tracey had such a big heart she would always come see me in my cubicle or office to ask me "are you ok". She was always willing to fit in any help she could offer even when she had so much of her own work to do. Working with her at the Michigan Metroplex was truly an honor she will truly be missed.

“ Those crazy parties at the Roseville and Allen Park house. Those crazy parties at your St. Clair Shores House. The times we snuck out during and after work to McCarthy's to play cards and just talk shit. There were four of us. Then three. Now none. I'll miss you. I'll think of you every time I see a mailbox on the street or the Detroit Lions on the TV.

Sweet dreams and I'll see you when we're all cats.

“ I literally talked to her on Thursday for about 20 minutes, and then for her to be gone on Friday is still not registering. How could this be. Such a nice person, genuinely nice. This is just so sad. To walk by her office is surreal. She will be truly missed

Jackie - November 18 at 09:47 AM

“ I have only worked with Tracey for a short while, but every time I saw her she greeted me with a hello and a smile.

She always asked how things were going and if she could help. Every time I knew she meant it, it was heart felt.

Now I walk past her office and miss her dearly. I pray your soul rest peacefully... sincerely “ Tracey was a beautiful and wonderful friend through high school. My memories of her are some of the most fantastic of my life. I will miss your smiles, laughs and the person you have meant to so many. My sincerest thoughts for your entire family.

Terry Beckwith - November 17 at 04:23 PM

“ Tracy was one of my Supervisors i have had in my thirty some years at the postal service. She was a woman of her word. Always followed up. And always had an ear for anyone. Even me. Easy to talk to and was seemed to be truly interested. She always did her job the best she could. She was seemed like a great person. I will truly miss seeing her. May God rest her soul. May her smile always be remembered by all.

Anthony Okalski - November 17 at 04:01 PM

“ I thank God he gave me the opportunity to meet you, your kindness & genuine heart has been a blessing to my family. Rest in his arms please be at peace. Not a day will ever go by without thoughts of you. I pray for your family at this time that they are comforted with Gods loving Grace.
