“ I grew up with Tony in the poorer area of Detroit way back in the early 50's; he was energetic, decisive, and worked harder than any three men; he identified with historical and factually accurate information relating to the German people. No one, and I mean no one could solve problems relating to the tool and die trade as quickly as he could. He bordered on genius in his trade and I really admired him. He was irreligious but had a moral compass superior to the pseudo pious crowd.

“ Such a sad day. Tony was one of the kindest and most argumentative man I have ever known. His debates were legendary. Always had a series of jokes to share and he always had strong opinions. Every memory I have of him brings a smile to my face. He was dedicated to his family and his work ethic was admirable. A terrible loss. May he rest in peace.
