“ First, let me say I didn't know, Christopher J. Parsons, but I do know how it feels to lose a love one in death. You never forget them. Why? Because we have pictures, videos, vacations, picnics, and gatherings with them. There's hope of seeing our love ones again. At Isaiah 26:19 says, " Your dead will live. My corpses will rise up. Awake and shout joyfully, You residents in the dust! For your dew is as the dew of the morning, And the Earth will let those powerless in death come to life." That is good news. Wouldn't you say. Please read it in your Bible. Laurie.

“ Aunt Carol, Uncle Jimmy, Jennifer and Chris,
Thank you for being in my life.

Our families grew up with one another in our lives.

My Mama and Uncle Jimmy grew up next door where they would call out to one another from their second story bedrooms and they shared stories with us of all their fun antics growing up together.

When our family moved into the same house decades later, I would come home from high school and go visit with Rose and John, Chris's grandparents, who were like second grandparents to us. Our families went on vacation together. We survived Jennifer and Chris singing their Seashells Love song in the car for a week straight one time.

I lived far away from a private high school I attended where I participated in a lot of after school sports and events, and for part of one year, Uncle Jimmy and Aunt Carol let me live with them during the weekdays because they lived closer and were so incredibly supportive. I got to be with Jennifer and Chris every day during that time and I would babysit for Chris when he was just a little toddler. He was always the sweetest little boy; loving and kind and gentle. He never got into much mischief, he was just a fun, good boy. When he grew up, he was the same sweetest little boy to me even though he was a giant.

When I last talked to him a few years ago, I got to tell him how much I loved him and how proud I am of him and I told him he will always be that sweet, gentle little boy.

Thank you to your whole family for sharing your love so deeply with our family.

I love you all so much and my heart is with you.

May all the guardian angels soar with Chris and may his heart and soul ascend to the most high under their guidance. He will always be with us, gently loving and supporting us with his big heart from heaven.

Thank you so much for all of your support over the past months. He took such pride in doing a good job for you and always spoke of you with great admiration and respect. He seemed so happy with his new truck and couldn't wait to show it to you. This was such a shock to all of us. Hugs to you both and thank you for your gift.
