“ I felt so sad to learn about Zanes death. Just an amazing man. I stayed with him a number of times, hunting on his property. Having breakfast and dinner together, was always fullled with smiles and laughter.

“ Just sitting here today and reflecting about my father. I was already missing him when he had his stroke because of the memory loss and the dementia. But now I know I wont even get to see his smile or his feel his kisses and hugs. I will truly miss my wonderful father and all that we shared together. I am so grateful to have been with him on his last day. I have many memories to keep dear to my heart. I will see him again one day.

From his Loving daughter, Sue

My dad at a family reunion and birthday celebration

“ My Uncle Zane, who passed away a few days ago, was a remarkable man. I remember thinking while I was growing up that Uncle Zane could do just about anything; it sure seemed like he could. I looked up to him so much. He was a World War II veteran who put in 30 years at Chrysler. He extensively remodeled one home and later designed and built his own house. He not only was an incredible craftsman with wood, making his own furniture and other pieces, he had so much natural musical talent with a number of instruments. Most of all, he seemed to have unlimited energy, determination, and enthusiasm. He was a guy who made things happen. I'll miss him.
