“ There will never be anyone like Uncle Dan. He embraced the title of Godfather and took it to another level completely. If we were ever on a sports team together growing up, there is no doubt you remember him. He never missed a game. He was going to be 78 next month but Uncle Dan felt ageless. Our last conversation was about crypto and blockchain technology. I’ve never met anyone more interested or interesting to talk to. In his words, “Time is a precious commodity, try to use it wisely.”
