“ *Dear Smoger Family,
I am very sorry for your loss. I was fortunate to have someone like Mr. Smoger to look up to while growing up. Getting to know him at family parties, his calm and thoughtful demeanor provided an excellent example of qualities I have always tried to emulate. I hope the family finds solace in sharing joyful memories of the happy times with him.*

*With Love,
Eric Brandt*

DS

“ Dad, the lyrics of this song sum up everything about you for me...

Well they built the Titanic to be one of a kind but many ships have ruled the seas

They built the Eiffel Tower to stand alone but they could build another if they please

*The Taj Mahal, the pyramids of Egypt, are unique I suppose
But when they built you, brother, they broke the mold*

*Now the world is filled with many wonders under the passing sun
But sometimes something comes along and you know it's for sure the only one*

*The Mona Lisa, the David, the Sistine Chapel, Jesus, Mary, and Joe
And when they built you, brother, they broke the mold*

*When they built you, brother, they turned dust into gold
When they built you, brother, they broke the mold*

*They say you can't take it with you but I think that they're wrong
'Cause all I know is I woke up this morning and something big was gone
Gone into that dark ether where you're still young and hard and cold
Just like when they built you, brother, and broke the mold.*

*Now your death is upon us and we'll return your ashes to the earth
And I know you'll take comfort in knowing you've been roundly blessed and cursed*

But love is a power greater than death, just like the songs and stories told

And when she built you, brother, she broke the mold

Love you Dad.

I will always be your Punk.
