“ Hi Mom, some may think it's weird I'm writing you on here. I keep to myself alot more than normal. I go about my days, working, taking care of my family. Everyday I go by your photo on my shelf and kiss it everyday. I hold my tears in and my feelings to myself, it's easier some days. With my birthday coming up in 9 days, I think about waiting to see the birthday card you send or wait for your phone call. Than remember that can't happen anymore. Which breaks my heart. 💔😭
I miss and think about you everyday. I love you and I can't wait to be reunited with you in heaven. 😇 Love your daughter, Tammy xoxo

“ My Condolences goes to Hawk and family, since Darlene didn't want a service, I thought I would eulogies her, it pains me to write this because I can't believe she's gone, Darlene was a strong Italian woman, I mention Italian because she let everyone know which meant you didn't mess with her, when I first meet Darlene I saw a fish out of water, but she held her ground, spoke up for herself and blended in, Darlene didn't see color she saw people and if she befriended you, you had a friend, I was bless that she befriended me because she was a True friend, always had good things to say about people, Darlene loved her Husband and her kids, especially Bobby, it was always Bobby this, Bobby that, she was very proud of his accomplishment and how he turn out to become a fine young man, she also loved her three dogs, but their was one thing about Darlene, she smoke a lot and I tried to get her to stop, Darlene sent me a Christmas card last year and usually after Christmas I throw them away, but for some strange reason I held on to it, and I was glad I did, because it was the last communication from her and I'm going to treasure it, Hawk I know you lost your beautiful wife, but I lost a beautiful friend, someone who was kind and thoughtful , may you RIP my friend no more pain or suffering , now you can be with your mother and farther , God has given your wings and now your an Angel now, take care my FRIEND !!!!!!!
