“ I served with Frabis on the USS Whidbey Island during the longest deployment since Vietnam. I also worked at TACTRAGRULANT when he worked there as a civilian. He was always super cool and had helpful advice, both on the ship and when I was getting ready to transition to civilian life again... I got an award at my shore command for making an ethernet crossover cable for their Aegis suite. One story of many. I'm sure he still has entries in the BS log on the WBI.

“ I met Frabis as a little kid. One of my first memories of him is when he got his Dyno bike and was waxing it; like someone would do a car. RIP Frabis maybe in heaven you can have the mustang my mom would never sell you ❤️🙏

“ I remember my little cousin David as a cute, curly headed little boy who was smart, friendly and very funny. His grandma, my aunt, took care of him back then. She loved him so but sometimes was a bit overprotective. He used to complain about how she made him drink out coffee stirrers instead of real straws! I also remember getting called to my moms house when David would visit her. He always cared about the old folks in the family and made sure he visited them. I think the most comforting thought I have is to know that David and my Aunt Helen are reunited right now. I truly believe this to be true and I can picture how happy she is to be with him. Your family will miss you David. You were a kind, caring man.

“ I remember my little cousin David. He was a curly headed little boy with an outgoing personality. He was smart as a whip. I remember my Aunt Helen caring for him and yes being a bit overprotective. She loved him with all of her heart. I don't think he liked it when she made him drink out of coffee stirrer straws instead of big straws! I remember David paging Helen Siegel at KMart service desk and then balling her out when she lost him in the store. He was a little character. I remember my mom calling me to come over whenever David visited her on leave from the service. He loved to look in on all the old folks when he was home. That shows a kind and loving nature. Oh how I wish you would have come home to your family David.
Because I know that Jesus died for all of us, I know that David is with Him now. It does make me happy to know that he can be reunited with his grandma, my Auntie Helen. She will be so happy to see him. That is what I hold on to now.

“ I remember when David first joined the L3 Team, and we became friends. He was enthusiastic, down to earth, and always willing to share a wealth of knowledge regarding our business. We had many conversations about motorcycles, cars, and home projects. His personality and smile was a perfect match, more importantly, he was a gentleman. I'll miss him and treasure the fond memories. Rest in Peace my friend.

“ Dave was my first friend at L3 and quickly became like a brother to me. Many hours we spent working together or chatting just discussing the events happening in our lives. He was one of the most intelligent down to earth people I have ever met in my life. I will miss you brother every day and never forget you

“ I am heartbroken with the tragedy and loss of my friend. I felt like I’ve known you forever even though we’ve only been friends for a short time. I loved bowling with you and spending time with you. I don’t have Great trust in most people yet found a true friend in you. It was a pleasure to meet your family a few months ago and I will never forget you or them. We had so many good times ahead of us and it pains me deeply that we will never have the chance. We bowled together last Thursday and it is so hard to believe that I will never bowl with you again. We never got to go fishing together and I am deeply sorry for that. You are...were a great friend and a better person. I will miss you very much. Until we meet again my friend!
Respectfully, ETCS(SS) Pete Monsam
