“ I remember when I was just a young lad and had stayed over Johnny & Dolores' house near his shop, Utica Steel Sales, in Washington, Michigan. It was a glorious day, sun shining, no clouds in the sky, their kids and myself had gone outside with Dolores to pick fresh blueberries in the woods next to their home. We all were given strict instructions not to eat the berries, because Dolores wanted to make a pie for desert that night. We all agreed that we would not eat any and were on our way to pick berries. When we all had full bowls, we came back to Dolores to show her what we had picked. She smiled brightly and then asked if any of us had eaten any of the berries. Of course we all cried out in unison, "Not me!" She smiled and said that was good. Then off she went with the berries into the house. Afterwards we were talking amongst ourselves saying do you think she knows? Then we looked at each other and everyone one of us had big purple blueberry ring stains around our mouths. I don't know who asked the question, but it was precious. "Do you think she noticed?"
