“ To my dear sister, You look so beautiful and happy in this picture on the beach in Marco Island where you loved to visit. I have a wish for you and that is that you are at peace, happy, not in pain, free from all the suffering, feeling the love and light of Gods warmth wrapped around. You're safe now surrounded by all the Heavenly angles and God's unconditional love you so deserve. You were sick and suffered so much of your Life and even though I wish I could have you back I know you are in a much better place and someday we will see each other again through God's grace. Through my tears I pray for your soul and hope you know I love you very much. Please pray for me that someday I will be able to accept the loss of you. God Bless you, Ruth

“ Please accept my deepest sympathies for the lost of Mrs Seymour. Death is truly our worse enemy. That is why God will soon act and 'he will wipe out every tear from our eyes and death will be no more, neither will mourning nor outcry nor pain be anymore'(Revelation 21:4). As you grief please cherish your memories of Jenny and draw comfort in knowing that you can see her again. (John 5:28,29)

“ Jenny was a kindhearted, warm friend with a good sense of humor. She will be missed by many. One funny story she shared with me was a story about her and Rich when they first started dating. They went to a carnival and on a ride Jenny felt sick. Rich took off his shirt and let her use it to get sick. We had a good laugh at that. My heart goes out to her family. Jenny was truly a special person!
