“ Auntie Irene's wedding was a first for me. I was Auntie's flower girl. Later she let me use her wedding veil for my first communion! What an impression this left on me. Peace to you, dear Auntie.##imported-begin##Marisha Zeffer##imported-end##

“ Linda, I know it broke your heart to lose your mother, take it from one who knows. The void will never be filled. Yet, the peace of knowing no more pain for her is such a blessing. Be grateful for the happy memories she leaves and take pride in your mothers strengths and talents which is what has molded you to the caring person you are today. You were a wonderful daughter and Irene knew it. Stay strong. Love, Lanzo##imported-begin##Nancy Barraco##imported-end##

“ Lin,
Through this difficult time we are thinking of you. We know that the tough times fade and those times of laughter and fond memories will be the memories you will giggle about.

Your Mom is now at peace and back with Sam. We know he has been watching and waiting for her.

Our prayers and thoughts are with you.##imported-begin##Chuck & Linda Coons##imported-end##

“ I did not personally know Irene, but if it is true that our children are our greatest memorial then knowing her daughter Linda speaks volumes about the life of this good woman. May she rest in the peace of our savior, her job on this earth well done.##imported-begin##Mary Ann Frank##imported-end##

“ The first time I saw Irene Briguglio was when she brought Lisa into beauty school to be sure it was good enough. She was in control and asked all the right questions. That began a long relationship between Lisa and I.

I remember going to Florida and staying with Mrs. Briguglio's brother, who was a little on the shy side. No problem, Irene was not shy.

I remember meeting Lisa at the Comedy Club on 15 Mile and Groesbeck. When Lisa walked me to the table there was her mom and dad smiling and holding hands. They looked like teenagers and we got fancy umbrella drinks. Dad paid the bill.

I remember at Mr. Briguglio's funeral I was told not to be surprised if Irene didn't recognize me because she was beginning to fail. I walked up and gave her a hug and kiss and she said, "Hi Lucy." Sweeter words were never spoken.

The last time I saw Mrs. Briguglio she was being transferred to a new nursing home in East Detroit. She kept her eye on Lisa to be sure she got everything in place. The tv wasn't turned on and that was being addressed as I said my good byes.

You will be missed. You always made sure there was plenty to eat and there was room for everyone. Now join Sal...he's been waiting for you.

*Love and lots of kisses,

“ I Love all you so very much and I am so sorry.

That picture says it all that is exactly how I remember her.

She was so good to me and i will never forget her. The kindness and generosity she always showed me was a blessing from God and just like your Dad she will be greatly missed. I could write a book but I won't to protect the innocent lol.

*With all my sincere sympathy and love
