“ I met Jason as Count. He was one of the four musketeers. He accepted me unconditionally and I the same. He gave me a safe place and defended me even when I was wrong. Called me an idiot or other words when needed and put me in check if needed. You won't get this reference but we were FAM through and through. Sometimes strangers become friends and sometimes more. I called him Little Brother and he won my heart as a true friend. He is already missed by so many people he touched on a global scale.

“ Comforting to see 'gaming' in his obituary. He truly changed the game for many people who played alongside him, all over the world. We may not have met him in person, but his kindness and craziness touched many many people. I will miss your presence Big Brother Count xx
Love and sincere condolences to his family, who he spoke so fondly of xx
