

Jason Alan Osterling

May 27, 1983 - December 23, 2025

Jason Alan Osterling, of St. Clair Shores, passed away peacefully, surrounded by family, on Tuesday, December 23, 2025, at the age of 42. He was born May 27, 1983 in Wyandotte, Michigan. Loving father of Jonathan. Cherished son of Susan Osterling and Al (Sabrina) Osterling. Beloved brother of Al (Trish) Osterling, Joey Martinez, Rosemary Martinez, and Ron (Bernard) Lang. Loving uncle of Michael (Sarai) Osterling, Alan (Milenna) Balian, and Nathan Osterling. Also survived by many loving friends and family members.

Jason was a true adventurer of the modern age, fueled by a deep love for Electronic Dance Music (EDM). For Jason, it wasn't just about listening to the music, but chasing the feeling it gave him. He traveled all across the United States attending festivals, Electric Forest, and following some of his favorite DJs, GRiZ, Subtronics, and Ganja White Night.

Above all else though, Jason adored being a father to Jonathan. He was more than just a father, he was a companion and best friend. Their bond together was forged in the digital trenches of Call of Duty and other video games that he and Jonathan shared with each other, undoubtedly with some EDM music playing in the background.

Beyond the glow of the screen, Jason was also an avid explorer who loved taking Jonathan to see the world. From the lush landscapes of Hawaii to the sun-soaked shores of Florida and Disney, Jason made sure every trip was an unforgettable chapter in their lives. Jason was a dearly loved father, son, brother, uncle, and friend, and will be truly missed by all who had the privilege to know him.

“ I met Jason when I was working at Michigan veterinary total health care, I was only there for 8 months but he was super kind, and always spoke so sweetly about his son. He was such a kind, happy person who loved joking around as well, and was amazing at his job, I’m so glad I got to meet him He will truly be missed, and I am sending thoughts and prayers to his friends and family during this time.

“ To the family of Jason Osterling, please accept my condolences for the loss of your young loved one. May you find comfort from knowing that “God is close to the brokenhearted” (Psalms 34:18), and in knowing that there will be a resurrection (John 11:23-25).

“ Jason was selfless, humble, and giving. He gave of his then precious, dwindling time on earth so that Jonathan had as secure a future as possible. My brother Michael, Jonathan’s maternal grandfather, passed away last year. One of his final requests of me was to ensure trusts were put in place for each of his 3 grandsons. I reached out to Jason. Without hesitation, even dealing with his horrible prognosis and knowing he wouldn’t be with us long, we had meetings with the trust attorney, working to set up a trust, understand and sign all the paperwork, multiple documents at different times through the process, so that Jonathan’s trust is now in place.

A truly strong, selfless act for his son.

He’s at peace. And he’ll be there when Jonathan, his family, or anyone who knew him need inspiration and strength. Just look up, ask, and pray.

And I’ll second Jason’s father Alan’s advice: life’s too short, hug, and forgive. And give of yourself and of your TIME. It’s life’s only irreplaceable commodity. And tomorrow isn’t promised to any of us, so if you want to face tomorrow, start today.

God bless Jason and Jonathan and their family and friends.

“ I met Jason attending Kennedy in 6th grade. He was always kind and funny. We had video production together in 8th grade and he made the class memorable. I remember giving him a big hug when he was sad due to the passing of Jerry Garcia. I hadn’t seen him in a few years and was not aware he was sick. I was very sad to learn of his passing this morning. I will be praying for his family and friends during this difficult time.

“ Jay and I have been best friends for over 20 years. I always told him he was my little big brother. We went through a lot together and always had each others back. Type of friend who told you what you needed to hear not what you wanted to hear. Over the years he worked for me hauling cars. We spent a lot of time together in a truck working. He was the closest thing to an older brother I ever had. You know you have a true friend when you cry, laugh, think about life all in a day. We saw each other at our lowest and always had each others back no matter what. I love you Jay and cancer might have beat your body but it can't touch the mind, heart, and soul! I'll see you again brother.

“ My son, one of a kind. A marine, a father & a son. I admire him beyond belief. He enlisted in the Marines & went to boot camp & was failing. He asked his drill instructor on what he needed to do better to make it. The instructor told him & don't you know my son passed boot camp with even the disbelief of the drill instructor. My son had a will that whatever he put his mind to he succeeded. Moving forward to a year ago he got a job at UPS temporarily. He told me he didn't know if he could learn all these buildings & deliveries. I told him to remember boot camp & he could do anything he put his mind too, don't you know he had that shit down pat in 2 days & had time to spare. My son had such determination to beat this horrible disease,cancer. I've never seen someone so determined to fight, a true Marine. He fought hard until the end. He fought to get out of the hospital to get home to end his journey. They tried to put him on a respirator but he fought so hard to not get on it & get home. He wanted to die at home. I know in my heart that God is waiting for him & will welcome him with open arms for all the suffering he did on earth. I urge anyone that smokes to please stop, you don't want to go through what my Son did. I also urge everyone to forgive & forget anyone that you have a grievance with, life is just too short. Life was way too short for my Son. Hug each other, forgive each other before it's too late. Jason was truly an amazing Son, Father & Friend. Jay will be truly missed by all. Jay I love you & will never ever forget you. Love You Dad
