“ I remember sitting in front of my Father on his motorcycle. We were returning from our vineyard and I asked him to race the train to our house. The tracks ran by our house. I remember being proud, in front of my Dad. The thrill, the fun, the feeling of invincibility. I still see the train, I still hear the motor, I still feel the wind. I still see my Fathers forearms and feel him behind me. Adio Father...
