“ I remember Mr. Mackin when I was a young kid as I was close friends with his sons: Dave, Mike and Pat. He was a great family man, hard worker, reserved and would do anything for his family. Condolences to the entire Mackin Family.

“Dad loved the book Angela's Ashes and would laugh so hard he couldn't breath at the part where the young boy threw up in the backyard after having communion and his grandmother was yelling at him for throwing up baby Jesus. I can still hear him laughing. Rest In Peace Dad I love you.

Great memories of the families getting together at Grandma's house on Promenade, uncle Ray sitting at the kitchen table talking to whoever else needed to get away from the wonderful chaos of kids running all over the place. He always laughed as he tried to remember the names of the kids he was talking to! Love to the Mackin Family
