“ My dad and i had similar humor. We could crack up about the silliest things. We watched americas funniest home videos a lot together and sometimes would cry we laughed so hard. One time i was talking to my dad and i said dad don't you hate when you get a cold and one side of your nose gets stuffed. He started laughing and said yes. We laughed for so long about that. :) Every night before i went to bed dad would say i love you and how much do you love me and i would say i love you unmeasurable. Dad i miss you and i love you unmeasurable and always will. Can't wait to see you again in heaven one day.

“ To the Broughton family:
We are so deeply sorry for your loss. Rosie is our fantastic secretary at Peck Elementary, and we love and miss her there. May God Bless Rickey's soul, and may His love surround your family at this difficult time.

“ I send my condolences to Rosie and the entire family for the passing of her husband Rick. They were my neighbors for 3 1/2 years, and I loved every moment of it. I first met Rosie when I moved upstairs from them, and later was introduced to Rick. He seemed like a quiet man, but I could tell from the start that he had a sweet and gentle spirit. His smile and how he greeted me always made me feel welcomed. I remember talking with him about expecting their first grandchild, and let me tell you, he was extremely excited about becoming a grandpa. I will miss him dearly. A great man, husband, and father...and neighbor! Please know that I will always pray for your comfort and strength in the Lord!

“ My uncle was a quiet man but when he spoke he would make you laugh with his impersonations or joke. He always made me smile. He loved to quote Duck Dynasty (“Hey Jack! “Happy, Happy, Happy!”) and had a passion for guns and knives that was amazing. Whenever I would see him he would hug me tight and give me the ‘Broughton’ pat on the back and tell me I love you and you are my favoritest niece. As the cancer grew my uncle lost ability to do things but his heart was still bigger than ever and although he could not tell me he loved me or squeeze me tight I could look into his eyes and know that he still loved me and that I was his favoritest niece. My uncle fought against this cancer as hard as he could but he now is in no pain and is sitting in eternity with his mother (my granny) painless and smiling from ear to ear. I love you Uncle Rick and you will always be loved and never forgotten.

*“If heaven wasn't so far away
I'd pack up my kid and go for the day
Then tell our loved ones we'd be back in a couple of days
In the rear view mirror we'd all watch 'em wave
Yeah, and losing them wouldn't be so hard to take
If heaven wasn't so far away”*

“ I've been thinking about how one can describe a person in a note in this form without losing the real meaning of a great person. This is what Rick life meant to me:

Rick loved life, knife and gun trading .

A kind man who loved this wife and girls.

A son who loved his Mom and Dad with all his heart..

A brother who was his brother best friend.

A strong man but yet gentle.

A man who anyone could look up-to.

A man who would be there for you in time of need.

A man who I will miss for as long as I live.

Rick my cousin who always made me feel special when he was around me.

Good bye Rick for now hope to see on the other side, with love.
