“ Milky - you will truly be missed. I can hear you singing at Suds with the other "CB's" and your voice was memorable ... as you were. You were always a bright spot in the lives of your "Baby Girls". I believe that we'll all meet up one day and heaven will be filled with the sound of Motown. Get things warmed up for us, Ronnie. We'll see you there.##imported-begin##Marty Merz##imported-end##

“ Dear Ron, Your spirit live's on! You have only left your body and this world. I truly feel, our spirit's will meet again, after I am done with this life. 30-year's I was the lucky one to have known you. You were always a gentleman to me, showing me respect and your kindness. Always showing my parent's respect. Calling them Ma and Pa, when seeing them. Seeing my mother at a store oneday, calling out across the way, Hi Ma! Walking up to her and giving her a big bear hug! These thing's I take with me, when thinking of you, your gentle kindness....a simple hello, gave another such joy, you've touched our live's without even knowing. You will be missed Milkman, from just one of your Baby-Girl's, Mara##imported-begin##Mara Demetrious##imported-end##

“ Ronald Arthur McCallum... The Milkman... Milky... Uncle Milky...
Milk Doc

Somewhere there is or was a photograph of three little boys on a couch. It's two little blonde, curly headed toddlers holding a baby. The toddlers? Ronnie and Rickie. The baby? Me. I guess I haven't really known a day without Ronnie, until now. It will be tough getting used to this.

We'll all miss the man who will lie In-state before us. We'll miss his physical presence, his wit, his jokes, and all that made him such a popular and welcome force in our lives. What made him so popular was the BOY that was Ronnie. That little boy that held me as a baby, shot paper wads, raided fruit trees and was hung by my brother (yes hung), never grew out of him. This demeanor kept us entertained no matter how crude it might get. There was never a dull moment with Ronnie and his playful antics will be what fuels and perpetuates our memories of him.

Ronnie was my friend, but our connection was brotherly and that's how I loved him. His leaving creates another big void in my life, just as Dave's leaving did. I was proud to play with him, to hunt with him and to ride with him. We had many happy times throughout our lives and I will cherish having known his friendship and mentorship until I go.##imported-begin##Ken Starr##imported-end##

Kim and I are going to miss our chats with you across the fence.

You were a friendly face and a pleasant neighbor.

I pray God is holding you in His arms right now.

Michele,

We expect to still see a lot of you.

Friends across the fence are sometimes the best friends to have at times.

Kim and I pray God pours His love and comfort and tender mercies on you.

With Deepest Sympathy,
