

Rosanne Marie Pilarowski

April 11, 1954 - March 3, 2024

Rosanne M. Pilarowski, born April 11, 1954 in Grosse Pointe, Michigan, passed away on March 3, 2024 in New Baltimore at the age of 69. Loving mother of Rae Tuten (Ron Sorrell), Sarah (Allen) Rowan, George Oldham and proud grandmother of Elizabeth Sorrell. Loving daughter of Joan (the late Raymond) Hambleton. Loving sister of Paula (Doug) Tucker, her twin brother, Mark (Denise) Hambleton, Elise Hambleton, Peggy (Mike) Koss, Ernie Hambleton, Donna (Mike) Lewis, Christopher (Jessica) Hambleton and her loving nieces and nephews; Dana (Ross) Brunetti, Eric Hambleton, Ramon Castro, Marc Ryan Hambleton, Parker Hambleton, Blake Lewis, Avery Hambleton and great-niece, Senna Brunetti and great-nephew, Decker Brunetti.

Rosanne was passionate about photography. During her 30 plus studio years, she was so popular that the children she did photos of later brought their own children to her for pictures. After studio life, her photography turned to her friends, family, and the natural beauty of Michigan. She loved camping, fishing, the outdoors, movies and Harrison Ford. She loved the Detroit Tigers and she enjoyed sports and played on many rec leagues for softball, bowling and volleyball. She loved to laugh, spend time with family and friends.

Rosanne had a generous and loving spirit and expressed her love freely. She will be greatly missed by her children, her extended family and her dog Jasmine.

I never had the pleasure of meeting Roseann, I learned a lot by listening to Rae, Ron and Elizabeth. My sister, Lynda, was always excited when Roseann made new photographs of Elizabeth. May you rest in eternal peace.

“ *I met Rose at the laundromat in New Baltimore and just saw her obituary posted there....
We always laughed and joked when I came in and because I worked a ton of different jobs she would always say "Don't work so hard!" When I left. She was sweet and caring and quick witted.
It's now your turn Rose.....to not work so hard! Rest easy friend you will be missed! Julie* “Rosanne, you will be dearly missed. You were one of my first trainers in the art of photography. I thank you for opening my eyes and showing me how to pay attention to detail. I carry your artistic spirit with me. Family, I will keep you lifted in prayer.

“Everyone referred to my aunt as Rosanne. Ever since I was little I called her Ish. Since I could remember, I wasn't able to pronounce Rosanne and somehow Ish is what I chose to call her, which never changed. Ish was not only my aunt, but my god mother. I loved her with all my heart and couldn't have asked for a better relationship with her. Hearing about her passing really took a toll on me because I feel like we weren't given enough time in each other's lives. Even if I had known her 50 years or more I still would feel this way. My family and I live the farthest away from everyone else, so we have to travel pretty far to see everyone. The only ones who came and visited us often was Ish and my cousin George. This is what made us so close. She shared her love for photography with me over the twenty years that I have known her. I loved looking at all the photos she took and helping her edit them. This made me want to pick up photography, she loaned me one of her cameras so I could get practice in. When she would come to visit we would show each other new photos we had taken. My favorite part about it was looking at my old childhood photos she took. It made us laugh because a lot of the photos she took were silly and embarrassing. I wish I had gotten more photos with my aunt, but she was always the one behind the camera. I am so grateful for the time that I was given with her. I truly could not have asked for a greater aunt and god mother than Ish and I want to say thank you for being one of the most genuine, loving and supportive people in my life.

“ Rosanne and I shared a room, and a bed, growing up, most of my life. When we were young, 4 of us girls slept in 2 twin bunk beds. Don't believe Rosanne's story that I pushed her out of the top bunk and caused her to get stitches in her chin. She stated she took the outside of the bunk so I wouldn't fall out. Other than that little disagreement, she was a great roommate. The upstairs in our house was always cold and she always kept me warm, especially my feet. As children we would play games, card and board, and would be out in the streets of Harper Woods. Well, at least until the street lights came on. When I turned 19 or 20 I would go to her house in New Baltimore, for the weekend and go dancing. We were big fans of Neil Diamond and she took me to my first Neil Diamond concert at Pine Knob. We still had fun playing games as adults, but no concert going.

Thanks for loving me Rosanne....love Peggy

“ I met Rosanne at the laundromat and we became friends. She was my lottery buddy. We played the midday and sometimes evening and we would win occasionally and always hoping for that one big win! She was so much fun and always made me laugh! I will miss her so much. I will miss all her messages to me on messenger and the jokes . Keeping all her family and friends in my prayers.

“ I have only known Roseann for several years, but I looked forward to seeing her on laundry day. She cared about her job and her customers. We shared her love for lighthouses and photography. Lifting up prayers to the Lird, 🙏 asking for comfort and strength in this time, wrap your loving arms around this family In Jesus name Amen

“ Rosanne and I are cousins. As kids we spent the usual amount of time together at family gatherings and such. As we grew older, we all ventured down different paths. Mine took me out of state and I didn't see Rosanne again. About 4 years ago I reached out to her on Facebook and was fortunate to be able to reconnect with her. She was one of my ardent fans, always “liking” my posts and making comments. Every day I would find something she posted. Maybe a joke, or a recipe, or a photo she liked. During this time, I came to know Rosanne as a very kind, caring, and straightforward person. My impression is that she genuinely cared about people in her life. I know she loved her kids, her mom, and her siblings. I will definitely miss my contact with Rosanne but am grateful we were able to reconnect if only through Facebook. My deepest sympathy to her children, Aunt Joan, and her sibling clan. Peace.

“ In the late 70's I would go to Rosanne's just about every weekend. A few of us would go to bar(s) either Friday or Saturday night. Don't remember where Charlie (first husband) went, but he wasn't going to be home for the weekend. Well one of those nights Rosanne and I wanted to drink but didn't have the money, but there was a jar of moonshine in the fridge, mind you this shine is NOT like what you can buy today at all, was not sold in stores. It also belonged to Charlie. We pour ourselves a shot, down it, spit it out in the sink and for some reason Rosanne poured the rest out saying how nasty it tasted. So bad, like turpentine, really. Of course, right away we realize that Charlie is going to be upset and to make matters worse we could not get the smell out of the pipes, we were also afraid the shine might have damaged the pipes! Well, our story to Charlie was while we tasted it, I dropped it in the sink. Have no idea if he believed it. Anyway, that's the way I remember it. Good times and laughs sis.

“ It was only recently I was lucky enough to meet Rosanne. She was the genuine article. She said what she thought and wasn't afraid to speak her mind. I respected her for that. Her sense of humor was so immense, she could make me laugh and always got a joke, she was my friend. When my mother passed away she truly cared. I know so many people are grieving over her but let's remember how her life made an impact and was a life well lived. She was a woman of faith and once told me to pray to St. Anthony, it was the very next day I found a St. Anthony prayer card in one of my Bibles. I will always keep that with me and remember Rosanne. St. Anthony is the patron saint of lost articles. Rosie isn't lost she is home with our Lord smiling down on us. My condolences go out to her family, tho your grief is great I hope the fact that she is loved by so many comfort you. Rest peacefully Rose. You truly are missed til we meet again.
