From an early age, Scott had a passion for baseball, taking his talents to the field as a skilled pitcher. His dedication to the sport led him to play semi-pro baseball and played for Birmingham Southern on scholarship. His love for physical activity didn't stop there, Scott was an avid runner, participating in marathons, and shared a lifelong enthusiasm for hunting, a tradition instilled by his father. Scott also enjoyed fishing with his son and brothers.

He had fond memories playing music with his nephew Jeff Golish and his friend Greg Cammarata. Even as his health declined, his love for people and his vibrant spirit never waned. Known by many as a fun-loving and genuinely great person, Scott left a positive impression on everyone he met.

He enjoyed making memories at the movies, a passion that he passed on to his son through countless shared experiences. In his later years, Scott found comfort in watching classics like "Gunsmoke" and "Bonanza.", which made him remember the memories he shared with his father and learning about those life lessons which were part of those shows.

Scott's career as a welder was showcased in the area hospital and at the auto show in Detroit for many years, many of which spent working with his good buddy Pete.

Scott's passing is mourned by all who knew him, but his legacy of kindness, creativity, and love will continue to inspire those he leaves behind. Scott's life celebration will be scheduled at a later date under the direction of the Wasik Funeral Home in Shelby Township.

“ Hi Darryl,
My family lived next door to your dad on Malbeck Dr. I remember playing kickball and baseball with your dad, your Uncle Troy and at times your Uncle Kim on the empty lot between our houses. Your dad was like a big brother just two years older than myself. He was tall and handsome. I'm sad to hear of his abrupt passing. I remember your grandparents and your Aunt as well. I will be praying for you and your family members. I would love to see a picture of you. Bet you look like your dad. Continue to make him proud❤️. Great big hugs from Carolyn Yandura Kilar.

“ Sending heartfelt sympathy to Daryl, my son, and to Scott’s siblings—Shelly, Troy, Brad—and all the family.

Scott touched many lives with his warmth, kindness, and unwavering love.

His passion for music was more than a hobby—it was his voice, his comfort, and his way of connecting with the world.

We will miss you dearly, Scott. Rest peacefully.
